

YUGOSLAV ARMY COMMANDERS GIVEN ORDERS BY TITO TO STOP SHOOTING AT U. S. PLANES; SATISFACTION IS PROMISED; "PROCEDURE IS NOT TO BE REPEATED"

Army Commanders Instructed Not to Fire on Foreign Planes — Possible New Incident Involves Mobile
Library Unit Hit Near Caporetto, Italy,
Close to Yugoslav Border

BELGRADE, Aug. 23.—(INS)—Yugoslav army commanders were under strict orders from Marshal Tito today to stop shooting at U. S. planes whether military or civilian. U. S. Ambassador Richard C. Patterson, who delivered a Washington ultimatum on the forcing down of two American planes on Aug. 9 and 19 told newsmen Tito has promised to give satisfaction.

Patterson asked specifically what future procedure would be in the case of U. S. planes flying over Yugoslavia without clearance. He inquired if such planes might also expect to be shot down. Tito answered:

"No, I have given the strictest orders to the Yugoslav Fourth Army commanders not to fire on foreign planes, civilian or military. The procedure is not to be repeated."

Shortly after Tito made this statement, dispatches from Trieste indicated a possible new incident involving an attack on a U. S. Army vehicle near Caporetto, Italy, close to the Yugoslav border.

The report said two bullets fired by unidentified attackers hit a mobile library unit attached to the American 88th Blue Devil Division. Driver of the truck fired four shots in the direction of the attackers, then aided 88th Division patrols in a fruitless search for the perpetrators.

Tito told correspondents at the Slovene town of Bled that he had branded the flights of American planes over Yugoslavia a "deliberate" attempt to emphasize the power of the U. S.

He suggested that specific signals be arranged to inform Yugoslav air patrols when American planes run into trouble or wander off course because of bad weather.

The marshal's reaction to the sharp American note followed the release of all ten occupants of the U. S. transport plane forced down Aug. 9.

Nine of the ten interned passengers and crew were set free well ahead of the 48 hour deadline set by Washington. They were delivered safely to Gorizia, Italy, where they were put to bed to rest up from their ordeal.

A Turkish passenger who was aboard was released, but did not leave Ljubljana where he is being treated for wounds received when the plane was shot down.

Posthumous Award Given For A Yardley Pilot

YARDLEY, Aug. 23.—Ensign Robert Vernon Wetzel, USNR, late son of Mrs. Edith Wetzel, Alton road, Yardley, has been awarded posthumously the Aid Medal for heroism in aerial flight as a pilot of a torpedo bomber in Torpedo Squadron 23, attached to the carrier USS Langley.

The flyer was cited for conspicuous gallantry in action against enemy Japanese forces in the vicinity of the Suzuki Airfield, Chichijima, Bonin Islands, on February 18, 1945. Disregarding an intense volley of anti-aircraft fire from enemy guns and with the target partially obscured by clouds, Ensign Wetzel pressed home an inflicting attack with bomb and machine gun fire. Partial destruction of the runway and the total destruction of two enemy aircraft on the ground were the results of his vigorous and vicious attack.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

The Roosevelt Obsession

Washington, Aug. 22. NO one wants to be unkind, unjust or impolite to Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, who, doubtless, is a good woman. But her recent automobile accident in New York State does raise the interesting question as to why she and other members of her family apparently should be immune to the laws of the country that apply to the rest of us and to the criticism that certainly would be visited upon the average citizen—and regarded as fully justified—for similar conduct.

WHAT is the answer? Is it because she is the widow of a President? Is it because her name is Roosevelt? Is it because there is anything about her or them that lifts them above the level of the ordinary American man or woman so far as their obligations to society and their general behavior are concerned? Not one of those notions seems adequate, sound or sensible. Their most ardent admirers would find it difficult to justify immunity upon such grounds. Take, for example, this automobile accident. Driving on the wrong side of the road and "dozing" at the wheel, Mrs. Roosevelt caused a collision with two other cars, injured several persons badly enough to send them

BEATS THE STORK DESPITE ACCIDENT

Mrs. Verie, Bristol Terrace,
Transferred to Another
Car Enroute to Hospital

HAS 8 LB., 3 1/2 OZ. BOY

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 23.—(INS)—Mrs. Edith Verie, 23, of 608 Court C, Bristol Terrace, Bristol, won a 15-mile race with the stork today even though the trip was interrupted by a traffic accident.

Mrs. Verie was being driven with her husband, Alvin, to St. Mary's Hospital, Philadelphia, in the car of a neighbor, Raymond Bilger, 607 Court st.

The car ran into a traffic island at Frankford avenue and Cottman street in Philadelphia and struck its bumper against an iron post.

Mrs. Verie was transferred to another car and gave birth to an 8 lb. 3 1/2 oz. boy at 5:40 this morning. She and the child were reported doing nicely.

The Veries have one other child, a boy about 1 1/2 years old. Mr. Verie is employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Upper Darby Wins the Drum-Bugle Contest

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 23.—(INS)—Here are the winners in the 40 'n' 8 American Legion parade in Philadelphia:

Band class: Oil City, first; Bellefonte, second.

Drum and bugle class: Upper Darby, first; Howard McCall Post, Philadelphia, second; Houston Post of Philadelphia, third.

Comic unit: Duquesne Post. Pittsburgh's "Carloca Special" was a rolling advertisement at the state American Legion convention today for its home town.

The locomotive-and-box-car, insignia of the fun-making 40 'n' 8, is built entirely of stainless steel.

Co-Workers Prepare a Shower for Florence Nepa

The young women employed at the Farmers National Bank gave a surprise lingerie shower for one of their group, Miss Florence Nepa, on Tuesday evening. The party was held at the home of Miss Sarah Albright, Taylor street. The living room was decorated with white streamers which extended from ceiling to floor. Beneath the streamers a doll dressed as a bride was sitting on a hassock, and gifts were arranged around it. A social time followed, and a buffet supper was served.

Those participating: the Misses Isabel Zaner, Amelia Cotugno, Alice Elmer, Blanche Gillies, June Heath, Carrie Bailey, Virginia Adrian.

DOYLESTOWN ASKS BIDS FOR SEWERS

Plan Extensions and Improvements To Sewers
In "East End"

MAY COST $50,000

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 23.—Borough Council authorized the advertisement for bids for constructing and installing vitrified and cast iron sewer pipe lines, pumping machinery and housing for extensions and improvements to the sewage system in Doylestown's "East End."

Bids are to be submitted at the meeting of Council on Monday night, October 21. This length of time was granted upon the advice of the borough's consulting engineer, William H. Boardman, of Philadelphia, who stated that better and more reasonable bids would be forthcoming if a large number of bids were submitted.

But in spite of the stand taken by all members of Council that the "East end" sewage improvement should be done immediately, or certainly as quickly as possible, Engineer Boardman described the plan for "East end" improvement alone as "not the most desirable."

Boardman estimated that the proposed "East end" plans will cost the borough between $40,000 and $50,000. He said that if the "most satisfactory plan" were to be adopted, the "plan that should be adopted if the money were available," would cost approximately $100,000.

An "East end" delegation was on hand at the Council meeting, together with a delegation from the "West end," calling themselves the "Pittsburgh delegation," who made another visit to protest about the lack of speed being noticed in the elimination of what they termed a "smoke nuisance" in their section of Doylestown.

"There has been no relief as yet," the spokesman of the "smoke delegation" said in his opening remarks to Council, "and we are wondering why." The delegation had reference to a rubber mill in the "West end," and to a dairy plant nearby.

Councilman James Rufe, who was appointed to look into the matter of a smoke ordinance for Doylestown, informed the delegation that he had in his possession, copies of ordinances from Norristown and St. Louis and that he expected some others very shortly, after which recommendations would be made for Doylestown. Councilman Rufe also stated that no matter what type ordinance is adopted the violating plant would have six months

Health Board Orders Garbage Dumping to Stop

Considerable complaint has been made concerning the condition of a plot of ground in the Third Ward lying between Otter street and Route 13, and west of Maple street.

Garbage has been dumped on the lot and this has created an objectionable odor as well as a health menace. The Board of Health yesterday issued a warning that dumping of garbage on the lot must stop at once.

The owner of the ground has been served with a notice to abate the nuisance at once.

Yesterday a representative of the Health Board caught two persons from Croydon ready to dump debris on the premises. One admitted that he had garbage. Both persons were stopped from unloading.

The Health Board has also been informed of two other non-Bristol residents who were seen dumping garbage on the lot. These have been sent letters advising them that the practice must stop at once or prosecutions will ensue.

GUEST SPEAKER HERE

Courtney Pitt, manager of the Public Relations Dept. of the Croydon plant of the Philco Corp., was the guest speaker at the Bristol Rotary Club meeting, held yesterday afternoon in the Elks' Home, when he spoke on the subject "Economic Conditions."

THE CIO LOBBY

The CIO has been a lobby ever since it was organized. That is the purpose for which it was formed.

John L. Lewis, who helped create it, knew what he was doing. He had already had a taste of power-politics, as a result of his bargains with the late President Roosevelt. Lewis recognized that the AFL, with its chapters formed on "crafts," was much less adapted to being turned into a political machine than would be a string of unions based on "plants," in which office boys would have an equal vote with veteran craftsmen.

Like many other Communistic inventions, this one was attractive because it fitted into the plans of those interested in power politics.

A "craft-union" by its very nature is essentially conservative. On the other hand, a "one-big-union" organization is bound to be dominated by those who feel they have much to gain and little to lose by radicalism—up to and including social or industrial revolutions.

Still more attractive to certain labor bosses, however, is the fact that in unions which follow the CIO pattern, it is very easy for the union heads to seize and hold a tight control over union affairs and policy.

The rank and file of CIO members have nothing whatever to say about the CIO decisions in the field of policy, nor about the deals its bosses make with various figures in national politics.

The understandings between the late Sydney Hillman and the late President Roosevelt, by which Hillman dictated the choice of vice president in 1944 (and hence the identity of the present President) and by which the CIO was given an inside track thereafter at the White House, was a bargain between bosses—New Deal and labor. It has never been confirmed either by the CIO membership nor the American public. They simply were not consulted.

ANNOUNCE PASTORAL CHANGE IN BRISTOL

Rev. J. W. Maybury Assigned To Frostburg, Md.;
Rev. Monnett Successor

EFFECTIVE AUGUST 25

At the annual conference of the Washington and Philadelphia District of the Church of the Nazarene, held this month, the pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, 319 Wood street, the Rev. John Wesley Maybury, received an assignment to Frostburg, Md. He will begin his duties as pastor in this new field this Sunday, August 25th.

The local pastorate will be filled by the Rev. Newton Monnett, of Delanco, N. J. The Rev. Mr. Monnett has been a member of the Church of the Nazarene for several years and has served as pastor at Woodstown, N. J., and other churches. The Monnett family consists of the pastor's wife, Mary, and three daughters, Margaret, Mary and Naomi.

Due to the housing situation, the pastor and family will continue to reside at 632 Laurel street, Delanco, until a later date. Mrs. Monnett is president of the Philadelphia Zone of the Women's Missionary Society, and also president of the Delanco Chapter of the Society.

Improvements and alterations are to be made to the public school house at Newportville so that it can be occupied for school purposes.

This was revealed today when the School Board of the district advertised for bids for general construction work, installation of heating and plumbing systems.

The building will be opened for school purposes as soon as the improvements and alterations are completed.

Plans to make the building suitable for school purposes have been delayed awaiting state approval.

Bids will be received at the office of the Junior high school on Rogers road and opened on Thursday evening, September 12th, at 8 p. m., in that office. Information for bidding may be obtained from Lewis R. Mackenzie, registered architect, 509-502 Architects Building, Philadelphia, 3, Pa.

It is planned to build a small addition to the existing building for the housing of lavatories. A heating system will be installed and running water will be supplied by an electric pump. New electrical fixtures will also be installed.

PLAN BOAT RIDE

The young adults of Bensalem Methodist Church will participate in a moonlight ride down the Delaware River tomorrow evening. Those wishing to go are asked to be at the Chestnut street wharf, Philadelphia, at 8:45 p. m.

BOY FOR VINES

NEWPORTVILLE, Aug. 23.—A boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. James Vine, of Newportville, in Harriman Hospital, last evening.

WARNING!

Persons are warned that all dumping of garbage on the dumping grounds between Otter street and Route 13 must stop at once.

It has been called to our attention that residents of Bristol, as well as a number who are not residents of Bristol, are dumping garbage either separately or with trash on borough dumping areas. It is this that must stop at once.

Persons caught violating the ordinance prohibiting the dumping of garbage within the borough, will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

BRISTOL BOROUGH BOARD OF HEALTH

Dogwood Trees to Honor Those Serving Country

At a meeting of the teachers of St. James' Church School held on Wednesday evening, plans were drawn for the ensuing term. Material was selected for the pupils of each class. Rally Day is to be held the first Sunday in October.

Two dogwood trees are to be planted in the near future, honoring boys from the parish who were in the service. A pink dogwood will honor the living, and a white one the deceased.

Teachers' meetings are to be held the third Wednesday of each month, with the exception of September, next month's meeting being on the fourth Wednesday.

Reject Bids Submitted For An Incinerator

MORRISVILLE, Aug. 23.—The hope for an incinerator for Morrisville borough vanished on Wednesday evening when at a special session of councilmen all bids for the proposed plant were rejected.

Expecting bids to be in the neighborhood of $47,000 the low bid received was $59,900 and the high bid, $89,940. Council agreed to set the issue aside until the cost of building a plant levels off.

The board also rejected bids on bonds, which were planned to finance the project.

Intelligence has just picked up a Republican wireless message in code. It reads "Truman's trip is like Truman's policies."

There is a subtle insult here which will be resented officially when and if we ever get home.

One thing that must be admitted is that we don't know where we're going but we're on our way.

We hear that the state of emergency in Maine has been ended and the Republican forces dismissed. . . . Also that Sen. Pepper spent a restless night.

RUSSIAN GEOGRAPHY LESSON

The shades of dead Czars must have indulged in ghostly jubilation when Russia proposed to Turkey that the Black Sea powers take full authority to draw up a new treaty governing the Dardanelles, and that the USSR and Turkey jointly organize defenses of the straits.

If Turkey ever agrees to "joint" defense with Russia of the Dardanelles, the Czars' old dream will be realized. Such a "joint" arrangement would mean Russian domination. But the most interesting part of the Red proposal is Moscow's insistence that the Dardanelles are solely the concern of Black Sea powers—Russia, Turkey, Bulgaria and Rumania, the latter two being recent Axis members—and that the other signatories to the Montreux convention—Britain, France, Greece and Yugoslavia—have no right to a voice about the straits. The same Russian attitude undoubtedly prevails toward the United States, which has been suggested by Britain and Turkey as successor-signatory to Japan, which also participated in the Montreux convention.

Moscow announced this Dardanelles proposal simultaneously with Molotov's tirade, at the Paris conference, on the Italian peace treaty wherein he made it plain that Russia expects to have a voice in all questions affecting the Mediterranean. If Russia is a Mediterranean power, the United States, Great Britain, France and even Italy are Black Sea powers. And how do you like your own geography when it's thrown right back at you, Molotov?

RAINFALLING

Overheated folk of the Mid-continent have their minds constantly on the hot weather and the parched state of the soil. Occasionally they inject the atomic bomb into their mental journeys as they wonder how the bomb affected weather at Bikini and if eventually atomic activity bombs will be used to break up long-drawn-out droughts. Rainmaking formerly was intensively practiced. One Kansas rainmaker built a wide reputation.

At the turn of the century the late George Matthews, who had an inventive mind, came to the conclusion that electrical impulses would affect weather. He set up wet batteries and radiated positive impulses into the dry air. Frequently it rained soon after the conclusion of one of his experiments.

On one occasion rain threatened to drown out Wichita's annual fair. Matthews went to fair officials and proposed that he reverse his rain-making apparatus to stop the downpour. He set up his batteries on the horse barn roof and pulled electrical impulses out of the air. The rain stopped and the dry period that ensued was so prolonged people began to fear that Matthews had performed his miracle too well.

A recently designed plane will travel 500 miles an hour, prompting the query: "What's the hurry?"

The purpose of this program, from the CIO point of view, was to modify legislation. The broader purpose, of course, was to work towards collectivism; and the means was to be the bullying of individual Congressmen until Congress as a whole would not dare refuse the CIO what it answered.

But the entire operation is exactly what the word "lobbying" signifies to influence legislation. The point of all this is that CIO now finds itself embarrassed by the terms of a new Anti-Lobbying law now going into effect.

This law requires the filing of detailed information about the purpose, salaries, and backers of all groups which seek to modify the laws of Congress.

It was worked out in the first instance to "run interference" for the White House lobby—Chairman Hannegan's political strong-arm squad which has tried in vain to jam the radical Truman program through Congress.

The idea was that the dissatisfaction among Republicans and "Southern Democrats" with this program was the result, not of the opinions and thinking of these opponents themselves, but of the activities of business and industrial lobbies in Washington.

It was thought that if these so-called "special interest" lobbies could be hamstrung, then the Truman lobby would have a clear field and get its own way. Since "its own way" was the CIO's program, the labor bosses made no effort to block passage of the anti-lobby measure.

But on the face of it, the CIO itself appears to be clearly within the scope of the law. This is bound to be tremendously embarrassing.

The CIO has assumed the right to raise all the political war chests it wishes, by whatever means it likes—the Federal statutes to the contrary notwithstanding. The law is evaded by technicalities, the approval of which may represent one of the worst blots on the Federal Department of Justice's record.

The man who okayed the CIO-PAC plan of trying to "buy" elections was a Pennsylvania New Dealer, former Attorney General Biddle. But the lobbying question will have to be passed upon, in the last analysis, by quite a different person—Attorney General Tom C. Clark.

Clark is a Texan, and the Texas point of view towards labor radicalism is quite different from that of Pennsylvania's New Dealers. Moreover, Clark already has expressed great alarm over the spread of Communism in the national government and its "infiltration" into American institutions.

Now, it is perfectly obvious that the moment the CIO is required to start making financial reports, the door (hitherto tightly locked) towards a full accounting of the source and use of its funds in politics will be set ajar.

And it is equally obvious to those who have followed the CIO's own attitude towards Communism, or have studied the history of the individuals who make up CIO's "war board," that Communists are extremely active in CIO affairs. There are those, including John L. Lewis, who say that the Communists have taken over—that the nominal officers of CIO are mere "captives" of the Reds surrounding them.

Attorney General Clark is on a terrific spot in this matter. If he decides that the CIO, biggest lobby of all, is not a "lobby" under the act, the whole measure will be turned into a joke. Moreover, at some stage of the game he will have to answer to Congress for any such ridiculous ruling.

But if he requires the CIO lobbyists to report, the way then will be clear to run back the money for the purpose of seeing how much of the funds and the ideology had their origin in Moscow, and how much of them are being used for the purpose of undermining the American plan of government.

These possibilities make much more likely that the law will suffer the fate which many attorneys believe it should meet—be declared unconstitutional.

The CIO, once the statute is turned towards it, will be apt to revise its judgment about the Constitution being merely a "relic of the horse-and-buggy days," and yell for its help.

Certainly it is difficult for any impartial bystander to reconcile the new law with the first paragraph of the Bill of Rights, which says:

"Congress shall make no law . . . abridging . . . the right of the people . . . to petition the government for a redress of grievances."

to the hospital, wrecked the machines and miraculously escaped herself with slight injuries—the loss of a tooth or so. She easily might have killed one or two others besides herself.

SUPPOSE this had happened to the wife or widow of some other public man or politician. Suppose it had happened to the wife or widow of a big banker or industrialist or of a governor or a senator or a judge or any other person of prominence and pretensions. One can imagine the clamor from the left, the sharp editorial comment, the suits for damages, the charges of reckless driving, the moral lessons that would have been drawn about the example which the more prominent should set for the less prominent, the fines, the penalties—the least of which would be the revoking or suspension of her driving license. That, with the ordinary citizen, would have been automatic and immediate.

DID any of those things happen in the case of Mrs. Roosevelt? They did not. On the contrary, the authorities announced that no charges of any kind would be made against her. The suits, if any, are all taken care of by insurance. Her license is to be neither revoked nor suspended. Why not? One explanation is that in New York now, under Governor Dewey, the authorities are all Republican and if any action were taken against Mrs. Roosevelt—for instance, the sort of action that would be taken against the ordinary man or woman who had done what she did—it would be construed as political—and a great howl would have been made.

BUT that is sheer political cowardice, evasion of a clear duty under the law. In addition, it makes no sense. Anyone who in broad daylight goes asleep while driving a car is a public menace—a danger to everybody else on the road and should not be permitted to drive. Hardly anyone will deny that. Yet Mrs. Roosevelt retains her license and may drive again any day or night she has her car on the road. No one else would be permitted to do that after her experience and her admission—and she should not. The inaction in this case seems thoroughly reprehensible and indefensible. The almost complete freedom from criticism which she has enjoyed in the press is remarkable. A great many individuals have been indignant and resentful, but little hint of this has been in the papers. This immunity would hardly have been given anyone else. If it had been, there surely would have been a considerable protest. And the professional "liberals" would have vehemently indicted the newspapers as craven and controlled, if not venal and licentious.

IT IS a strange thing—this idea that this particular branch of the Roosevelt can do no wrong—or when they obviously do wrong it must be played down, hushed up, not mentioned—treated on a different basis. A notable instance of this occurred about a year ago when the extremely unsavory financial transactions of Elliott Roosevelt, whose typically bungling book is just out, and the sensational connivance—there is no other word—of his father in them were exposed. The newspapers—most of them—then, printed the bare facts as news, but comment upon Elliott's misdeeds was absurdly restrained and the extremely sorry and sordid part played by the late President was generally and inexcusably ignored. The same illogical restraint was shown years ago about "Jimmy" Roosevelt's amazing insurance prosperity, largely built upon his White House connection and also about the extraordinary amount of money made by Mrs. Roosevelt out of radio broadcasts, lectures, newspaper columns and magazines while she was—and entirely because she was—the wife of the President.

CERTAINLY, it is time we got over this curious obsession about the Roosevelts. Certainly, it is time we dropped the silly idea that they excel in virtue and wisdom; that because they are Roosevelts they are entitled to do without criticism things that would be severely rebuked in anyone else.

IT IS high time we realized that as a family and as individuals their character and capacity have been greatly exaggerated; that most of them have been unpleasantly greedy after money and that their ethical standards are below the average. So far from being free from flaws, they are more lacking in admirable qualities than almost any other White House family in our history. It is absurd that we should be deterred from stating or accepting the truth about them through fear that some windy ex-jobholder or former White House sycophant might shout "Roosevelt Hater," or some blatant left-wing labor leader bellow about the Roosevelt love of the "common man," than which there has been nothing phonier in our political life for a long, long time.

Yugoslav Incidents to Be Referred to the UN

PARIS, Aug. 23—(INS)—Highly authoritative American sources in Paris said today Yugoslavia's release of the first group of interned U. S. airmen does not mean that Washington will drop its plan to refer the matter to the UN Security Council.

These sources said reference of the issue to the Security Council for prompt and appropriate action depends now on what has happened to the crew of the second plane.

One source close to Secretary of States Byrnes said that if the dead bodies of American boys who were aboard the second plane should be found on some lonely Yugoslav mountainside, the matter will unquestionably be referred to the U. N. Official American sources emphasized that the release of the first group of fliers by no means closes the incident.

They pointed out that the fate of the second plane may prove a far more serious matter than the first, especially if American lives are lost.

It was explained the release of the crew of the first plane means merely that the U. S. Government may not summon the Security Council immediately upon expiration of the 48 hour ultimatum, since the threat to do so was based on failure of Yugoslavia to free those men.

Asks Guarding Against A "Lost Generation"

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 23—(INS)—Gen. F. R. Kerr, director of special services for the veterans administration, called upon the American people today to prevent the nation's war hospitalized veterans from becoming a "lost generation."

Addressing the 26th annual convention of the American Legion Auxiliary, Department of Pennsylvania, the VA official said:

"It is a challenge to all of us to see to it that these thousands of veterans do not become forgotten men and women."

Explaining that the needs of hospitalized vets have "multiplied several hundred fold," General Kerr urged auxiliary members to volunteer their services in behalf of the incapacitated men and women who served in the armed forces.

He said that hospitalized veterans are the "responsibility of the entire citizen body." The VA, General Kerr added, must set a course for years to come "when the tumult and the shouting something for the boys" has begun to die down, when the veterans in our hospitals and homes must become of perhaps less heroic stature in the eyes of the great public.

He spoke of the friendly spirit found in the country, and in the arrange, where the members meet from time to time to discuss their problems and enjoy a social time.

Ellis Johnson was assigned the subject, "Some methods I have found successful in feeding dairy cows." Mr. Johnson suggested rotating crops so that cows have plenty of green feed so as to cut down on so much high-priced grain. He also advised having two or three pastures that when one is exhausted there will be another.

Mr. Johnson also spoke of the care of dry cows, "Too many people neglect them and when they are fresh they are in a poor condition," he said.

Roll call was answered by the members relating a true animal story. A grange quiz was given by the lecturer, Mrs. A. E. Macklin. Ruth Schuster gave a solo and recitations were presented by Lois Graver and Jean Fret. Several sections on the musical saw were rendered by Ralph Graver.

Legendary Touch Added by Herbs Says Miss Balderston

TREVOSE, Aug. 23.—More than 400 people listened to a talk by Miss Julia Balderston when she discussed herbs at a meeting of the Treves Horticultural Society in the community house on Tuesday evening.

"I have 20 different kinds of herbs in my garden," said Miss Balderston, who explained that interesting legends are connected with most herbs. "Parsley," she said, "according to an old legend goes to the devil seven times before coming up." She added that most gardeners are aware of the fact that parsley is extremely slow in germinating.

Many herbs have been found embedded in excavations of antiquity and not a few have been used for ornamental and decorative purposes. Herbs, Miss Balderston explained, are used in cooking and for medicinal and other purposes. Mint can be used for so many purposes and chives suggests onion rather than the taste of onion," she said.

George W. Bower, of Haddonfield, N. J., who made a trip to Yellowstone Park in 1939, showed beautiful color films of Yellowstone National Park, the Rocky Mountains and Grand Teton National Parks and Shoshone National Forest.

Mrs. Earl P. Allabach, chairman of the membership committee, reported 507 paid-up members and 39 new members.

Presenting a short talk on gladioli, Arthur Seyfert suggested that this be controlled with an insect spray composed of tartar emetic.

Among the decorations that were used in beautifying the hall were 16 varieties, collections of late herbs, dahlias and gladioli. The meeting was in charge of Harold W. West, president, and prior to assembling in the hall the members enjoyed a picnic supper on the lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jay V. Hare.

"Although we live in a world of unrest, suspicion, and mistrust, help us to find 'the peace that passeth all understanding.' To find that peace, help us to understand that we cannot discover it in material possessions nor in self gain. Only as we give ourselves to the cause of the living God, and as we expend ourselves, can we have the 'peace that passeth all understanding.' May we hear the voice of our Lord say to us, 'Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you. Not as the world giveth give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled nor let it be afraid.' Help us to be worthy of this benediction, and then shall we receive this blessing. Amen."

Sportsmen's Briefs

By JOE ELBERSON

Edgely meeting . . . the August meeting of the Edgely Rod & Gun Club is scheduled for next Tuesday, August 27, in the Headley Manor Fire House. Chairman Joe King urges a big turnout so that the Fall program of the Club can be completely mapped out. The meeting will start at 8 p. m. All sportsmen have a cordial invitation to be on hand.

Eleven bass . . . that was our catch when George Colville, Harry Bossler and I fished the upper Delaware River above Milford, Pa., last week-end for smallmouth bass.

The water was fairly low but there was considerable moss moving down which had a tendency to catch on our lines and hide the bait.

We took nine of our bass in one hole, Helgramites and night crawlers were responsible for our catch. Just to be different Harry also bought a dozen crayfish but he didn't get a strike on these. George caught the biggest fish, a 17-inch. When we opened him up we discovered he had been feeding on crayfish! George took him on a helgramite.

Just to keep in stride with rising prices the bait sellers have raised their prices again. They now charge a dollar a dozen for helgramites. At the beginning of the season it was eighty cents. Last year it was sixty cents.

Rifle and pistol matches . . . although this will be the first time since 1941 that the classic national rifle and pistol matches have been held at Camp Perry, Ohio, present indications are that competitive marksmanship records of pre-war standards will be maintained during the matches, which are expected to be held August 31 to September 8.

This was the expectation of V. J. Tiefenbrunn who directs the rifle and pistol shooters' service division of Western Cartridge Co. The absence of competitive shooting during the war has not lowered individual scores, according to Tiefenbrunn, who has attended state and regional matches in various parts of the country. For many it has been a hand-to-mouth job to get ammunition, but Tiefenbrunn says his company expects to have sufficient match ammunition at Camp Perry for both rifle and pistol shooters.

Canal fishing . . . here's an item which proves they're still biting in the Canal: George Bowman, Wood street and Ralph Whyne, Borraine street, fished the Canal Monday evening when they landed a 17-inch pickerel and a 14-inch bass. They were fishing in the Tullytown section. This section of the Canal is being cleaned up somewhat. Weeds are being cut and the general appearance is greatly improved.

Hunting licenses . . . in answer to a number of queries I have checked the local sporting goods stores and they have not received their shipments of 1946 tags as yet. The 1945 license expires the end of this month, and probably by that time the 1946 licenses will be available.

Nice catch . . . Charlie Elliott, well-known local sportsman, tells me that he, A. K. Smith, M. Muffett, and C. Loechner fished out of Beach Haven on Monday in search of tuna. No tuna at the end of the day, but the group landed 57 bluefish!

Attending shoot . . . William Warner, Bristol, Charles Blittle, Langhorne, and Dr. William Brodsh, Cornwells Heights, all well-known trap shooters in this area, are now attending the Grand National Trapshooting program in Vandalia, Ohio.

CORNWELLS UP-ENDS LEADERS OF LEAGUE

Cornwells Methodist added emphasis to the wild, three-cornered scramble for the second half honors of the Lower Bucks Church Softball League when they up-ended Eddington-Newtonville, the present league leaders, by an 8-2 score on the Bristol Township High School Field last night. As a result Eddington's game and a half lead shrunk to a half game over Cornwells and one full game over Calvary. Eddington will meet Calvary in its final game on Monday night while Calvary and Cornwells will tangle at the Bensalem High School field Saturday afternoon. Meantime Calvary will battle Bristol Presbyterian in a rained out game tonight at Crofton.

It was mainly the pitching of Bob Whyte plus the combined stick-work and superb defensive play of Jack Hansen at third base that gave Cornwells their victory in this all-important game. Whyte held the league leaders to only six hits, two of which were garnered by Ed Yehle, who doubled in the first and scored a moment later on a single by Bob McGovern to get Eddington off to an early lead. McGovern also counted a bit later on another hit by Charlie Goodbred. Yehle and Heath singled in the second for Eddington. But after that Whyte settled down to hold the opposition to one hit—a single by Everett Headley in the 7th inning. Meantime Cornwells, who had been held to a measly single through the first three frames, picked up a single tally in the fourth when Jack Hansen singled behind a triple by Bill Lamont. Hansen's second hit of the game was a long blast to left that went for a home run following Charlie Poston's double to account for the winners' final two runs in the 7th. The pitching duel between Whyte and Headley broke wide open in the 5th when Cornwells got to Headley for five runs on five consecutive hits by Mudie, Whyte, Relf, Grupp and Lamont plus a fielder's choice and a long fly. Both clubs played fine defensive ball with Eddington turning in one double play and Cornwells two. The defeat marked the first for Eddington after five straight victories.

In another league tilt last night Bristol Presbyterian vacated the cellar for the first time in the second half when they annexed their initial triumph, an easy 13-3 over Hulmeville to drop the latter into the league basement. A home run by Danny Fleming after Charles Fisher had walked gave Presbyterian a 2-0 lead in the first. Hulmeville got one back in their turn when George Wood was safe on an error, moved to third on two infield outs and scored on Harry Cooper's double. Adding a pair in the third on George Wood's double, and singles by Headley, Martindale and Mullins, Hulmeville went out in front, 3-2. But in the fourth the roof caved in on Hulmeville's starting pitcher, Harry Cooper, Presbyterian getting to him for five hits, which coupled with three walks, enabled the winners to chalk up seven big runs and chase Cooper from the mound. Dan Fleming was the big gun in this rally with two singles that drove in two runs, giving him a total of four runs driven in for the evening. Fleming also had a walk for a perfect night at the plate. Roy Neal had 3-for-4 for Presbyterian; while Johnny Becker paced the losers with 3-for-3.

Many a big deal has been made possible through a small want ad.

VOLTZ KNOCKS AMERICAN STEEL OUT OF PLAYOFFS

Bristol Team Defeats Trenton Nine By Score Of 4 to 3

SAMSEL ON MOUND

Yates Drives In Two Runs Thus Aiding His Teammates

Voltz-Texaco knocked the American Steel team out of the playoffs by a close score of 4 to 3. Benny Samsel pitched for the Texaco team of the Trenton League, after losing out in the playoffs with the Processing team of the Bristol Suburban League. Herbie Yates aided his team by knocking in two runs, getting two hits, and is credited with one of the runs.

Voltz-Texaco will meet the Prison Guards tonight at Leedom's Field. Parker may be on the mound for Voltz.
